WELL, HELLO THERE!

We're thrilled you're here.

In case we are new to your world, here's the inside scoop on our 100% teacher-run company...

For 70+ years, scientists, researchers, and university educators have been studying how brains learn to read. They have pinpointed the teaching tools and strategies that help students learn faster and easier and (just as important!) they have identified the things that keep students stuck so we can stop wasting time.

But sadly, it wasn't until very recently, that their findings made it into the hands of the people who need it the most: teachers like you who spend your days actually teaching students to read.

That's where we come in!

At Playdough to Plato, our #1 goal is to give you the tools, training, and support you need to confidently help your students learn to read.

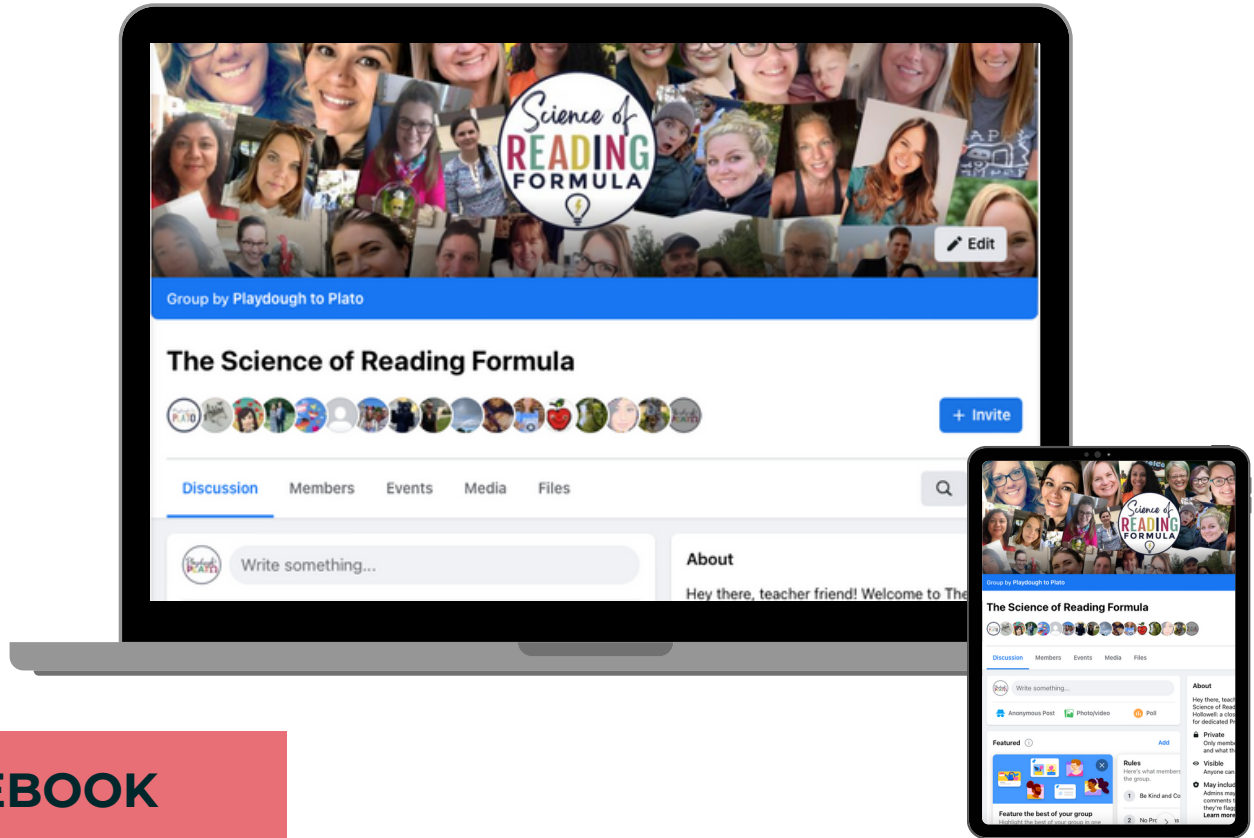

When we join forces, those sleepless nights spent worrying about students falling through the cracks will be a thing of the past. And your reading block will finally be your favorite time of the day.

You won't believe how fun it's going to be!

XO, Malia
